History of Bethune-Cookman University

The year was 1904 when a very determined young Black woman, Mary McLeod Bethune, opened the Daytona Educational and Industrial Training School for Negro Girls. The School underwent several stages of growth and development throughout the following years and, in 1923, as a result of a merger with the Cookman Institute of Jacksonville, Florida, became a co-ed high school. One year later, in 1924, the School became affiliated with The United Methodist Church and, in 1931, further evolved into a junior college known as Bethune-Cookman College. On February 14, 2007, Bethune-Cookman achieved university status.

In 1941, the Florida State Department of Education approved a 4-year baccalaureate program offering post-secondary and teacher education. Dr. Bethune retired in 1942 at which time James E. Colston became the College's second president, having served until 1946 when Dr. Bethune resumed the presidency for a year.

In 1947, Richard V. Moore Sr. was named as the third president of the institution. Under his tenure, the curriculum expanded; student enrollment increased; new buildings were constructed for residential housing and classrooms; the College became accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools; and, in 1970, joined the United Negro College Fund as well as other academic and professional organizations.

Oswald P. Bronson Sr., PhD, an alumnus of the College, served as the fourth and longest serving president of the College from 1975 to 2004. During his tenure, increased student enrollment led to continuous development and expansion of the College. A rapidly increasing student enrollment led to construction of additional student housing, classroom buildings, and a state of the art Performing Arts Center. Major fields of study increased from 12 in 1974 to 37 by 2003. In addition, seven continuing education centers for students began operating throughout the state of Florida. While maintaining accreditation by SACS, the Florida State Board of Education, and its affiliation with The University Senate of The United Methodist Church General Board of Higher Education and Ministry, the College added new accreditations in the Nursing and the Teacher Education programs.

In August 2004, Trudie Kibbe Reed, Ed.D. was appointed to the presidency by the Board of Trustees. The fifth president of the institution, Dr. Reed was the first woman to serve in this capacity since Dr. Bethune. Under her leadership, in 2006 the first Master's degree program was added, and in 2007 the College achieved university-status, officially becoming Bethune-Cookman University. Further, Dr. Reed launched the International Institute for Civic Participation and Social Responsibility as a way to increase student learning about citizenship and leadership development. Additionally, the University's physical plan expanded and improved with the purchase of nearby properties and construction, which included the Michael and Libby Johnson Center for Civic Engagement, the L. Gale Lemerand School of Nursing Building, Lee Rhyant Residential Life Center, and the Alexis Pugh and Eugene Zimmerman Scholarship Houses.

In May 2012, the Board of Trustees appointed Edison O. Jackson, Ed.D. as Interim President and in March 2013 he was appointed to serve as the sixth president of Bethune-Cookman University. Under Dr. Jackson's leadership, the University increased enrollment; added new undergraduate and graduate degree programs as well as program accreditations; increased internship and study-abroad opportunities; established the Online College, the Center for Entrepreneurship & Economic Development (B-CU CEED), and the Mike Curb Institute; strengthened its town and gown relationships; and enhanced the infrastructure through new construction and expansive renovations. Upon his resignation in July 2017, the Board of Trustees appointed Judge Hubert L. Grimes (retired) as Interim President. Prior to this appointment, Judge Grimes served as the University's General Counsel and Director of the Center for Law and Social Justice.

On July 1, 2019, following a national search, the Board of Trustees appointed E. LaBrent Chrite, PhD to serve as the seventh president of B-CU. Dr. Chrite brings extensive global and executive academic leadership experience. Since his arrival, he has focused on the placement of talented and capable leaders as well as the reorganization of key departments in support of the University's vision. His strategic efforts and innovation have included an overhaul of the academic enterprise, enhanced student support systems, and improved fiscal stability and constituent relationships.

Library & Learning Resources

About the Carl S. Swisher Library and Learning Resources Center

The Carl S. Swisher Library & Learning Resources Center (LRC) was constructed in 1971 and now contains over 140,000 volumes, in addition to periodicals, audio and video tapes, microforms and other non-print materials. The library is open over 90 hours per week including evenings and weekends. It has a full-time staff of eight librarians and six support staff members. The library serves the entire campus of faculty, staff, students, and administrators, satellite campuses, as well as other community constituents.

The library/learning resources center features an Online Public Access Catalog (OPAC) that provides access to the library's collection via the Internet. In addition, it also provides access to a number of subscribed electronic databases available 24/7, both on-campus and remotely, from any online computer station. These databases feature electronic periodicals, newspapers, and electronic books in support of the academic programs. The electronic resources are particularly tailored to support the undergraduate distance learning programs, and the graduate and professional studies programs.

The library/learning resources center offers a number of services, including reference, research instruction, copy and fax service, non-print media service, interlibrary loan (ILL) and computer access. All services are offered during hours of operation.

The Carl S. Swisher Library/Learning Resources Center houses a number of conference rooms for group study, exhibition areas, computer center, learning commons, and college archives. Special collections include: the Mary McLeod Bethune, Florence Roane, Attica Collection, and the Black Collection of books by and about Blacks. The archival area is the repository for documents, photographs and other materials of historic value to the university.

The library falls under the administrative Office of the Provost and receives system support from the Center for Information Technology.
